

STILL AS A GHOST

Why Mrs. Avery of the City of Detroit

SAT UP IN BED AND SCREAMED

A Masked Burglar Who Wore Rubber Shoes Glided Out of the Room and Disappeared.

DETROIT, April 8.—Richard Avery has a saloon at No. 1066 Russell street, and with his wife occupies apartments back of the barroom. About 2 o'clock this morning Mrs. Avery suddenly woke up and saw a man rummaging in the bureau drawers. He wore a mask which entirely concealed his face, and had evidently come in by way of the kitchen and a rear window. Mrs. Avery immediately sat up in bed and screamed "Burglar!" Her husband tumbled out half awake and tried to catch the burglar, but he might as well have tried to catch a shadow, for the burglar wore rubber shoes and glided out of the room as silently as a ghost. Before Avery reached the door Mr. Burglar had slipped through the window and disappeared.

The Averages lighted a lamp and examined the bureau. Much to their satisfaction it was found that the burglar had only carried off Avery's revolver. If Mrs. Avery had not waked up he would have discovered $40 and a gold watch in another drawer.

Several claims for aid were presented. The board will finish its work tomorrow and adjourn to meet in Marquette, July 12. The Saginaw county committee is in session with the board tonight concerning local exhibits.

MICHIGAN EQUAL RIGHTS.

Afro-Americans Meet in State Convention at Lansing.

LANSING, April 8.—The Afro-American citizens of Michigan held a state convention at Mead's hall here today, which was solidly republican in center to circumference, and the white republicans of Michigan could possibly have gathered a few points from it. No one can say that it compared unfavorably to similar conventions of any class of citizens in Michigan. In the matter of earnestness, white republicans could certainly gain something in the way of inspiration. The meeting was called principally to have an accounting, upon the situation, review the progress and results of the past and place itself upon record as to the needs of the future.

It asked congress for methods of enforcement of the laws for the benefit of the race; for the enactment of the national election law; for free speech, for assembly and free ballot; endorsed the administration of President Harrison; thanked the last republican state administration for its recognition of the colored race and trusted it would more fully recognize it in the next administration, which was conceded as a matter of course, would be republican, and by a unanimous standing vote, adopted a resolution of thanks to Judge A. W. Turgeon for his earnest, able and continuous efforts in behalf of the colored race. The Michigan Equal Rights association was the name adopted for the organization and the following officers were elected: President—W. S. Miller, Lansing. Vice President—J. H. Wilson, Grand Rapids. Secretary—T. P. Wood, Adrian. Treasurer—Charles W. Ellis, Saginaw. John J. Evans of Battle Creek was recommended to the republican state convention for delegate at large to the Minneapolis convention.

Orders to show cause were granted in Earle vs. Kent Circuit Judge and others, and denied in Collins vs. Muskegon Circuit Judge and others. The case of the City of Grand Rapids vs. George Widdicombe et al. was heard. Wednesday's call: 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13. The court will adjourn after sitting three days.

General State News.

The ladies of that Otsego library association, who recently raised the money to pay for their hall by earning money in various ways, have succeeded in making themselves famous all the way from Oregon to New Jersey. In speaking of the success of Miss Crayon in selling a spring poem to an editor, the Philadelphia Record says: "Thus was a feat beside which the sale of kisses to the opposite sex at fifty cents apiece pales into hackneyed insignificance. The girl who can sing spring poetry in middle March in the raw climate of Michigan deserves to rank far above the forty fair. She is a girl of rare possibilities, is this sweet singer of Michigan, and the country may yet hear from her in matters of larger pith and moment."

Miss Ella Diamond of St. Charles, went to Lansing with a young man named Levant Kessler of Otsego, a circus man. The couple went there for the purpose of marriage, but upon the strength of a telegram from the girl's mother, Kessler was entertained at the police station through the night. The mother arrived in the morning and took the young folks home.

Simpson Has a Record.

DOVER, N. H., April 8.—The picture of John Arthur Simpson, alias George Simpson, alias George A. Stillwell, of Frederick, N. H., once a Baptist minister, later a burglar, horse thief, incendiary, forger, bigamist and finally a murderer, has been identified as that of Julius McArthur, who killed Deputy Sheriff C. H. Smith of New Hampshire,

May 16, 1891, while resisting arrest for stealing a horse, and who escaped from jail in this city, July 17, 1891. McArthur is supposed to have gone west. He is a remarkably fluent talker. He can preach a sermon, make a prayer or deliver a practical oration in a manner to win high compliments, while his education and natural judgment enable him, were his record not known, to gain consideration as a polished gentleman.

Fight With Oyster Pirates.

ONANCOCK, Va., April 8.—Battles have been waged during the last week between the oyster dredgers and tongmen along the eastern shore of Chesapeake bay and one man has been killed and several injured. The battle ground was Tangier island, and two sloops of hasty tanger islanders, armed with oil-finished muskets, are said to have routed a superior force of dredgers, backed by the repeating rifle and cannon of the Virginia oyster police. A fleet of Maryland pirates also raided the Virginia oyster grounds, but were driven off by the islanders, who rigged up a piece of stove pipe for a quaker gun and terrified the well-armed raiders. The islanders captured a boatload of oysters and five men, all from Smith's Island, Maryland. The men were brought here Sunday night in their boat. After a trial before a justice of peace they were sent to Accomack county jail.
